

Points of Discussion

1. We watched the video of Lionel and read several stories of students in Papua. At some point in their lives, they met teachers who led them to life-changing opportunities, through various activities at school. What do you think were the essential parts that lead them to the transformation?
2. What do you think about a study that stated “nearly nine out of ten people of faith, felt God’s love and heard about the good news before the age of 18.” What does that say about the influence that a teacher has over his/her students?
3. What kind of changes would you like to see in the lives of children in the Eastern Archipelago and how can you be a part of those changes?
4. Do you have any questions about the work that Mustard Seed does? What would you like to learn more about or understand better?
